Claim Policy

Subscribers may place claims for undelivered issues. The ACA is not responsible for replacing issues that have arrived damaged. Due to these postal irregularities, U.S. domestic claims must wait eight weeks after publication and international claims must wait 12 weeks after publication before claims are considered.

Agencies receiving issues on behalf of end users are responsible for delivery to the end user. Issues that have been shipped to the agency will not be replaced without payment for the replacement issues and shipping. Repeated claims for subscriptions delivered to the end user may, at ACA's discretion, instead be delivered to the agency or to a U.S. domestic address for pass-through delivery to the end user. If there are more than two issues claimed in a row, we retain the right to charge for postage and/or replacement costs.

Replacement Issues

Replacement issues may be purchased by contacting orders@armscontrol.org and requesting an invoice for the specific issue(s) and shipping costs. Tracking is available for an additional cost.

FAQs

- Rolling annual subscriptions: Subscriptions are processed on a rolling basis and cover one year, which includes 10 issues (the January/February and July/August issues are combined).
- Renewals: We do not automatically renew subscriptions. You will receive an email notification to renew your subscription as your expiration date approaches.
- Cancellation/refund policy: Cancellations are accepted but refunds are not offered.
- Online access: All subscribers can access their online accounts at armscontrol.org/mysubscription. Online access is granted by username and password combinations; access via IP addresses is not provided.
- Subscriptions are for institutions (e.g. libraries, embassies) or individuals who do not wish to become a member but want to read Arms Control Today. Memberships are for individual supporters.
